Greetings Dear Friends of CIS;

We have a Youtube.com channel “Community of Infinite Spirit.” We are converting our audio Podcasts to video for uploading to our Youtube.com channel. Currently we have three chakra meditations, and two Sunday Services. In addition, Rev. Christine videoed a prayer treatment for wholeness that is up on our channel. More content will be added, as the project progresses. Please “Subscribe” and “Like” our channel.

“I Dreamed of Rain” Rev. Christine Emmerling, D.D.

Yesterday I was admiring the beautiful surrounding foothills that just turned green. A couple of Sunday services ago, we played one of my favorite rain dance songs “I Dreamed of Rain” by Devotion Then that day rain came, and it wasn’t even in the forecast. The next week the big storm arrived, and it came pouring down in buckets. The rain continued off and on for a week or so. I’d like us to take credit, but I know that many others were praying as well. It’s not just the words we say, but the feeling behind it that makes prayer so powerful. Singing a prayer or affirmation can add so much more feeling – giving the prayer life, the words have wings to soar.

I recall reading from one of Gregg Braden’s books about a lesson in praying he had learned from a Shaman. The Shaman told Braden that he was going to pray rain. He took a few minutes in silence to imagine and actually feel the rain pouring down his face and mud squishing between his toes, and having much gratitude for this rain. He declared his intention, and proceeded with imagination and gratitude. Shortly after, clouds formed and it did rain.

We forget that we are praying all the time. We are praying every time we are remembering, reliving and bringing up all the emotion with our full attention. Ask yourself, “Is this what I want to be reliving?” It’s so easy to dwell on what we really don’t want to experience again. I mean we can really get into all the feelings. We can even dialog with the imaginary people in our head. Although, all our imaginings may not have manifested in our world, but our bodies don’t know the difference. Our body is responding and has its affects at the cellular level.

Now to just do all this with what we choose to consciously think about and create. It’s about being the driver of our thought patterns. To be fully conscious of what we are thinking about. There was a time when I was upset over what happened, and every time in the car commuting it would come up in my thoughts, and take center stage. All the painful memories would replay. Once I became aware of what was playing in my head, I was able to say to myself, “Christine, is this what you want to be creating for tomorrow?” The answer was an immediate, “NO!” I followed up with, “Then what do you want to create?” That made the replay stop in its tracks. I would have to take a few deep breaths, and in the silence came thoughts of peace, love, gratitude. Then I would begin to sing. Eventually, those painful memories no longer popped up. I replaced them with something better – the present moment.

It does take effort and practice. We were taught as children how to read, spell, and mathematics and other subjects. Yet never taught about how our thoughts work, or how thoughts manifest. The good thing is that it is never too late to learn. Every day is an opportunity to begin anew. Like a baby learning to walk; falling is part of learning and eventually mastering. This is just as true for us, as we learn to control our thoughts, and become the master of our life. "As a man thinks in his heart, so is he." Proverbs 23:7

"Thanksgiving Angels" by Rev. Mark Stuefloten

Do not neglect to show hospitality to strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels unawares. Hebrews 13:2

Thanksgiving is a time to pause and give thanks for the abundance of good in our lives. Gathering together with family and friends, we celebrate and give thanks to God for our safe passage through the year's trials and triumphs. The Bible tells us that we may be approached by strangers in need who could be angels. I imagine they may be one of those many people I see panhandling outside the shopping center, or one of those standing at the side of the road holding card board signs scribbled with words asking for help. There are many kinds of people, asking us in various ways for some kind of assistance, who could be angels. Divine Science teaches that we are all Divine Beings, created in the image and likeness of God. When we show hospitality to anyone, we could be entertaining angels unawares.

"Thanksgiving Prayer" by Rev. Teresa Stuefloten, M. Div.

Thank you God for my life. Thank you for the knowledge that I am Spirit having a human experience. Thank you for the physical body that operates so miraculously without my conscious attention. Thank you for the precious opportunity to be in physical body in this earth plane to learn and to grow in consciousness. Thank you for the knowledge that I am a Divine Expression. Thank you for providing my every need at the exact time it is needed.

I open my consciousness to receive that which is mine in consciousness. Thank you for the loving people in my life who support me and encourage me to grow. Thank you for the challenging people in my life who cause me to grow as I open to the lessons they are providing me. Thank you for the knowledge that I am eternal Spirit and I will live eternally. Thank you God for the knowledge that we are One. Thank you God for my life. I am grateful.
